WRITTEN AT RANDOM.

For the enlightenment of the Paducah Baseball Association, whose card to the public was as unjust towards this paper, as it was uncalled for, it might be stated that no such statement as that the Baseball Association intended to swear out warrants—against Sunday violators, or anyone else, for that matter—has been made through the columns of the Sun, which could readily have been ascertained by an investigation.

Fred Hippel, Jr., son of Mr. Fred Hippel, of Jefferson street, has developed into quite an athlete and pugilist. Fred is a Paducah boy, but moved to Princeton, Ky., several years ago. The "Princeton Republican" of yesterday contains this bit of intelligence, which will no doubt prove of some interest to his friends here:

John Parks, a light weight pugilist of New York, has challenged Fred Hippel, Jr., for a fight for $1000 a side. Hippel has accepted and the fight will take place at the opera house in this city June 27.

One of the longest private telegrams ever sent was flashed over the wires from Louisville to New York last night, giving the Courier-Journal. It contained 10,041 words and cost $30.39. It was a legal document that it was necessary to transmit at once to New York. Some idea of the magnitude of the telegram may be had when it is said that if printed in the Courier-Journal it would make about one solid page.

The most idiotic thing suggested in many moods is reported in a morning contemporary. This is an injunction "enjoining the mayor from signing the ordinance," meaning the sewerage ordinance. Was there ever anything more absurd? From indications no injunction will be necessary to enjoin the mayor, and it could easily become a law without the mayor's signature, anyhow.

more than a few cents is ever advanced on a case. The poor people are often driven to such depths of destitution that they pawn the quilts which they have borrowed from professional quilt-lenders. During the four months beginning with December the loaning of bed clothing and wearing apparel is carried on very actively in Japan, the charge being from two to eight cents (silver) per day. The quilts are almost invariably torn and mangled, but they can be rented for two or three days, a sum which could readily have been pawned for thirty cents.

This action, remarks Mr. Porter, is almost always followed by some perpetration of larceny for the man must not only pay the two cents per day for the quilt, of which, after all, he has not the use, but must also collect sufficient money to redeem his pledge to the pawnbroker.

The poorer Japanese are慷慨 borrowers. Even the beggars borrow or hire children. The lending of children is a recognized practice among the beggars, who find them of great assistance in the solicitation of alms, which is really forbidden by law. So great is the demand for children for hire that a clever beggar can not be secured for less than ten cents (silver) per day.—Philadelphia Press.

Capt. W. G. Whitfield, is in receipt of a letter from his old Lieutenant-Colonel, Col. Ashford, of Alabam, stating that the Centennial grounds at Nashville are located right where the regiment in which Capt. Whitfield fought a bloody engagement in 1863. Capt. Whitfield vividly remembers the spirited fight, but never having seen the Centennial grounds, was not aware of the fact that they are located on the old battle ground. Quite a party of old Confederates will leave the city about the 14th inst. for Nashville, to view once more the old battle ground.
